The Thousand Cankers Disease of Walnut Quarantine Order issued July 20, 2010, requires individuals or businesses handling "regulated articles" in Kansas to register with the Kansas Department of Agriculture. Those importing such articles must also enter into a compliance agreement. "Regulated articles" include, but are not limited to, logs, lumber, firewood, bark, mulch, burls, stumps, live plants, packing material and all other articles of walnut (genera Juglans). Exempt from the quarantine are nuts, nut meat, hulls, and processed lumber that is bark free and from states where Thousand Cankers Disease of Walnut is not found.
